

Riho Akagi

Riho Akagi, born in 1992 in Mishima, Shizuoka, Japan, is a distinguished pianist and music educator whose extensive training spans from the Tokyo College of Music to the Guildhall School of Music and Drama in London. Her performance history is rich and international, featuring solo and collaborative concerts across Japan, the UK, and beyond, including prestigious venues like the Barbican Hall. Notably, she won the Dvorak Society for Czech and Slovak Music Prize at the Emmy Destinn Young Singers Awards 2019. Currently, she contributes to the musical community as a freelance collaborative pianist and accompanist at GSMD, nurturing the next generation of musicians while continuing to perform at various esteemed events and venues.